COMPTONITE HELD AFTER FATAL CRASH

One Killed, Twelve Injured in Three-car Collision

Russell Stevens, 25, of Compton, was delivered to the county jail here this morning at 1:30 by State Highway Officer Ted Holderness of Rochelle, with instructions that he be held pending the filing of reckless driving charges in the county court. Stevens was being held following a serious automobile crash which took place yesterday afternoon on U. S. route 51, about six miles north of Compton, in which one woman was killed and 12 others were injured when three automobiles collided.

Stevens and his passenger, Ray Montavon, also of Compton escaped with only minor bruises.

The victim of the three-car crash was Mrs. Goldie Miller, 52, of Aurora, Mo. She was a passenger with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hamby of Rochelle. Their daughter, Mary Lu, aged three, suffered a crushed foot. Physician stated today that amputation might become necessary. Four other Hamby children were also passengers in the car.

The second automobile was driven by Gustav Beck of New Athens, Ill. He and his wife and George Bahre, Mrs. Thomas Wilson and Mrs. Ferdinand Beck were taken to the Lincoln hospital at Rochelle when two ambulances from that city were pressed into service to haul the injured from the wrecked cars.

Died Soon Afterwards

Mrs. Miller passed away at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the hospital. She sustained fractures of both legs and the right arm and was otherwise cut and bruised. George Bahre was reported to have suffered a fractured nose, severe head cuts and bruises, chest injuries and the loss of one eye. Mrs. Ralph Hamby of Rochelle had both legs broken and suffered possible internal injuries. The latter two were reported to be in a critical condition today.

Gustav Beck, 32, operator of one of the cars, was reported to be only slightly injured. He was to be brought to Dixon this afternoon to file charges against the Compton resident.

According to reports of authorities who investigated the accident, the Stevens car which was returning to Compton from Rockford, was driving south on the highway and Beck was driving north. Stevens, police were reported to have stated, attempted to pass the Hamby car and when he observed the northbound machine, he swerved to the west shoulder.

Dr. J. C. Akins of Forreston, Ogle county coroner, empaneled a jury at Rochelle late yesterday afternoon, but continued the inquest, pending the outcome of the other seriously injured victims.

FOUR DIE ON CROSSING

Granite City, Ill., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Three men and a woman were killed today by an Illinois Central passenger train which struck their automobile at a grade crossing, two miles east of here.

The dead, all St. Louisians, were:

Dr. Harry S. Hughes, 57, a physician specializing in treatment of the eye.

Dr. Kenneth F. Hughes, 29, nephew and professional associate of Dr. H. S. Hughes.

Mrs. Warren W. Brown, 26, an office assistant of Dr. Hughes.

Joseph A. Gabler, 35, vice-president of a firm of opticians.

The identifications were made by Mrs. Brown's sister, Miss Luella Schwizer. She said Dr. Hughes and the others were accustomed to go to Litchfield, Ill. every Thursday morning to keep office hours.

W. A. Hoff of Clinton, Ill., engineer of the train, the Diamond Special, said the automobile approached the crossing at a speed of 65 miles an hour. The train en route from Chicago to St. Louis, was traveling about the same speed.

The automobile was carried 400 or 500 feet along the track and was pinned down by the locomotive. The woman's body was thrown out of the car, but workmen with crowbars and blow torches had to extricate the men's bodies, which were caught in the wreckage.

At Long Last

Chicago, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Clear skies and cooler temperatures today interrupted a siege of rain that had gripped much of the middle west for more than a week.

No rain was indicated in government weather reports. The forecast was for generally fair weather throughout the area although some cloudiness was predicted for the eastern part.

Temperatures, generally below normal, were expected to continue so throughout today and tonight. Warmer weather was forecast for the western part of the region tomorrow.

DRIVES AUTO AT RATE OF 350 MILES PER HOUR TODAY

British Fur Broker Sets Speed Record Believed Impossible

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Wealthy John R. Cobb of London usurped the world's automobile speed throne today with a mark of 350.2 miles per hour.

The doughty fur broker smashed the record of 349.49 miles per hour established here August 27 by Capt. George E. T. Eyston, retired British army officer.

Cobb, a new man at high-speed racing, flashed through the measured mile at 353.29 going north and 347.16 on the southward run.

Eyston's average for the north run was 347.49 and for the south 343.51.

Eyston has announced he will run tomorrow, thereby continuing their costly and hazardous duel at speeds in the six-miles-a-minute class. The former officer watched his record fall while flying along the course.

Cobb was jubilant. His aides disclosed he would remain here with his "Rallion" and make more runs if Eyston regains the record.

Described Ride

"I just kept going faster and faster until it seemed the car couldn't stand any more," he said. "My vision was blurred. I could hardly see anything at all."

"It's a relief when you pass out of the mile and you can let up on the throttle. It's a comfortable feeling."

Cobb said he had the car at full throttle.

"She's got more speed, though. The car dragged just a little. I'd have been faster. I believe, if the track had been firmer."

He ran under almost perfect weather conditions. The air was still and there wasn't a cloud in the sky.

The black and aluminum-colored racer, thundering through the mile at a clip until recently believed impossible, was timed at 1.19 seconds for the north mile compared with Eyston's 10.36, and at 10.37 for the return sprint, compared with Eyston's 10.48.

Cobb also shattered the kilometer record with an average of 350.07 miles per hour, compared with Eyston's mark of 345.21.

NOVELIST IS DEAD

Baltimore, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Thomas Wolfe, American novelist, died today of an "acute cerebral infection." The 37-year-old author of "Look Homeward Angel" underwent two operations at Johns Hopkins after his arrival Saturday. He fell ill of pneumonia in July but was recovering in Seattle when an infection began and spread to his kidneys and heart.

Motorcade of Dixon Merchants to Tour Territory to Boost Festival

Dixon merchants will participate in a motorcade through Lee and adjoining counties next Thursday, advertising the annual Fall Festival, Sept. 27, 28, and 29. Those planning to make the trip are requested to notify Chester Barriague, who is preparing the itinerary. The caravan of automobiles will leave early Thursday morning, returning in the afternoon. Several have already indicated that they will spend half of the day on the tour and the majority have agreed to spend the entire day on the trip.

Prof. Quiz is a new feature to be presented during the Festival, it was announced today. Entrants in this feature may enter the contest, regardless of place of residence, by submitting their entry to Professor Quiz, care of the Dixon Evening Telegraph. This feature will be presented on Tuesday and Wednesday nights from a large platform on Hennepin avenue and First street and the questions and answers will be heard over the entire midway, over the public address system. The committee will present awards for the best five questions submitted, and will act as judges during the contest. All questions are to be limited to historical or interesting facts concerning Dixon and vicinity.

Several entries have been received for the Amateur Hour feature which is to be presented from the same platform on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Amateurs who plan to enter this contest are urged to file their applications with the Dixon Fall Festival Amateur Hour, care of Dixon Evening Telegraph, at once.

The committee in charge will select the type and number of acts to be presented and will award prizes at the close of each evening's performance.

Vindication

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Senator George of Georgia, ahead today in a three-cornered primary battle, was the last of eight Democratic senate foes of the Roosevelt court bill to come up for renomination this year. All the others were successful.

Senator Augustine Lonergan, another in the group, was renominated yesterday in a Connecticut Democratic convention.

The other six were Senators Gillette of Iowa, Van Nuys of Indiana, Clark of Missouri, McCarran of Nevada, Smith of South Carolina, and Tydings of Maryland.

DIXON CONCERT LEAGUE'S PLAN INCLUDES STAR

Percy Grainger, Famous Pianist-Composer, on Winter's Program

Election of officers, plans for the coming season and discussion of a membership campaign featured last evening's meeting for directors, officers and interested members of the Dixon Concert League at the Chamber of Commerce. Officers named when the League was organized a year ago, were reelected. They include:

President, F. A. Hanson; vice president, Mrs. Lester Street; secretary, Miss Frances Patrick; treasurer, John L. Davies.

Walter Larson of the National Concert League and William E. Wright, formerly of the Civic Music association, both of Chicago, were present to assist in planning the year's activities. Mrs. I. B. Hofer was elected chairman for the membership campaign, which is to open on Monday, Oct. 17. Mr. Wright will assist Mrs. Hofer and her committee in conducting the campaign, for which headquarters will be established at the Chamber of Commerce.

Plan Great Talent

Detailed plans of the drive will be announced soon, and the League is making an urgent plea to music lovers to show their interest in and appreciation of one of the city's most active groups of music sponsors by purchasing memberships as soon as they are offered for sale.

The Vienna Choir boys have been booked for the first concert date, Nov. 6, and the second concert will be by Percy Grainger. The third program is optional, depending upon the response to efforts of the campaign committee. Through a reciprocity exchange with the Freeport Concert League, membership tickets purchased here will also admit the purchaser to programs booked by the Freeport League. James Melton is among the artists who will appear during the season in Freeport.

Summarization of News from War Fearing Capitals of Europe Today Compiled by Associated Press

Heart of News Told in Paragraphs for Busy Readers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The eyes of Europe anxiously turned toward the little Bavarian town of Berchtesgaden today as Britain's prime minister, Neville Chamberlain, and Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany met for a momentous talk which may mean peace or war.

Meanwhile, Sudeten Leader Henlein issued a proclamation demanding annexation of the Sudeten German regions of Czechoslovakia by Germany.

Alarmed by the serious turn of events in Czechoslovakia, Chamberlain arranged the unprecedented conference by a telegram to Hitler yesterday and flew to Germany this morning.

If the visit has no other effect, it lessened the tension in Europe at least temporarily and brought praise for Chamberlain's bold diplomatic maneuver even from quarters which usually are critical.

Germany remained silent on the Czechoslovakia situation and was expected to do so until after the Berchtesgaden conference.

The Prague government, meanwhile, dispatched more troops and tanks to suppress disorders involving its Sudeten German minority in towns along the western and northern frontiers.

The French government, which was said to have taken the initiative in urging Chamberlain to visit Hitler, placed its hopes of peace in the Berchtesgaden conference, but sources close to the foreign office said they had little idea what turn the interview might take.

The Italian press was quick with praise of Chamberlain for his trip to Germany.

Il Popolo di Roma said:

"Chamberlain has intervened with his initiative, truly worthy of a statesman of high European conscience."

At the same time, an open letter to Viscount Runciman, British unofficial mediator of the Sudeten dispute, published in Premier Mussolini's Milan newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, advocated that Czechoslovakia be divided into racial states "to save Europe a war."

Meanwhile, the wars in China and Spain were virtually at a standstill. The Spanish war simmered to exchange of artillery fire, while the Chinese reported they were blocking the Japanese advance toward Hankow China's provisional capital.

Advise Railroad Employees of Cut Effective Oct. 1

Chicago, Sept. 15.—(AP)—More than 900,000 employees of the nation's major railroads were advised formally today their pay checks would become 15 per cent slimmer at 12:01 A. M. Saturday, Oct. 1.

Announcement of the effective day of the cut originally was made by the carriers' joint conference committee on September 10. The committee said the action of the individual railroads today in advising representatives of each employee organization of the reduction order was a follow-up of their announcement.

The railroad workers are taking a strike vote this month, following the collapse of efforts to mediate the wage dispute. If a strike is voted, the national railway labor act permits President Roosevelt to postpone a walkout until after a fact-finding commission reviews the controversy. Intervention by the President also would postpone the effective date of the wage cut, originally set for July 1.

Sixteen Passengers Escape to Safety From Burning Bus

Norwalk, Conn., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Sixteen passengers and the driver of an interstate bus bound from Boston to New York escaped to safety today in fire which destroyed the vehicle, which had halted to take on gasoline. The loss was estimated at $15,000.

Many of the passengers, some of whom were asleep at the time, were assisted from the bus by Herman Masse of Boston, after Walter Johnson, attendant at the filling station and eating place, shouted a warning of fire.

Proved Point

Milton, Wash., Sept. 15.—Milton's new Republican committeeman, Boston Curtis, won office without the sign of a campaign. He collected his 51 votes without even offering a platform.

Boston Curtis, a mule, was entered in Washington's blanket primary election by Kenneth Simmons, Democratic mayor of Milton, who saw to it that Boston's hoofprint was attached to the filing notice and himself signed at witness.

Simmons said he wanted to demonstrate his belief many voters know not whom they support.

Officers Named

In a resolution adopted at this morning's session, the board named County Superintendent of Highways Fred W. Leake and Attorney Elwin Bunnell to represent Lee county and empowered Chairman Henry L. Gehant to make application for a federal PWA grant to be used in the building of the proposed black-top surfaced highway connecting the village of Nelson with the all-weather improved road at the Lee-Whiteside county line on the Rock Island road.

Bill Is Rejected

Pending the outcome of mandamus proceedings instituted by Dr. Kenyon B. Segner, county coroner, in an attempt to force the board of supervisors to pay claims for expenses claimed for this office, the board tabled a claim in the sum of $243 filed by the coroner at yesterday afternoon's session. The action was taken following the report of the fees and salaries committee.

In the same report, the committee's recommendation was adopted by the board placing County Investigator Arthur C. Handell on half time basis of salary not to exceed $61.66 per month, subject to the approval of Judge Grover Gehant in the county court.

The judiciary committee recommended that the board place County Investigator Arthur C. Handell on half time basis of salary not to exceed $61.66 per month, subject to the approval of Judge Grover Gehant in the county court.

Will of the Late Frank Hollenbeck is Attacked in Suit Filed Today

An action to set aside the last will and testament of the late Frank W. Hollenbeck, who died June 30, 1937, has been instituted in the Circuit court by Hattie I. Thome and Mary S. McNeal, sisters, naming Addison J. Hollenbeck and others as defendants. Numerous charges are preferred in the complaint which was filed yesterday afternoon by a Sterling attorney.

The complaint sets forth that Frank W. Hollenbeck was not of sound mind and memory at the time he executed his will, and that at the time he was in his dotage, his mind and memory being impaired so as to render him wholly incapable of making a just and proper distribution of his properties.

Another count in the complaint alleges that Addison J. Hollenbeck, who was named executor of the estate and was the principal beneficiary, used and exercised many undue arts and fraudulent practices and resorted to falsehood and misrepresentation to induce Frank W. Hollenbeck to execute an instrument in writing and at the time, the latter was under improper restraint and undue influence from the arts and fraudulent practice of the defendant.

The two sisters, plaintiff in the action, according to the provisions of the will were conveyed notes in the amounts of $244 and $7,672 which were to be divided equally the remainder of the estate being conveyed to the defendant who was named executor. A jury trial is asked.

PREMIER FLEW TO MUNICH TO MEET FEUHRER

Peace of Europe Hinges on Parley Conducted Near Berghof

Berchtesgaden, Germany, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain arrived at 4:02 P. M. today (9:02 A. M. C. S. T.) for his talks with Reichsfuehrer Hitler in search of means to assure European peace.

The British leader was received by Dr. Otto Meissner, chief of the chancellery, who conducted him after a short stop at the Grand Hotel to Hitler's home, Berghof on Obersalzberg.

A special train brought Chamberlain and his party from Munich, where he had arrived earlier from London by airplane.

A crowd which had gathered near the railway station cheered Chamberlain when he appeared, walking from the train with Joachim von Ribbentrop, German minister, who had accompanied him from Munich.

Ribbentrop remained with the British prime minister as he motored to the hotel and thence to Berghof.

Standing at the top of the wide staircase leading into his home, the German chancellor welcomed his visitor. After a brief exchange of greetings, Hitler conducted Chamberlain into the house.

People lined the winding road between Berchtesgaden and Obersalzberg and cheered as the British party drove by in one of Hitler's famed big black motor cars. Groups shouted "Heils" and threw their German Bavarian caps into the air.

DEMANDS ANNEXATION.

Prague, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Sudeten leader Konrad Henlein issued a proclamation today demanding annexation of the Sudeten German regions of Czechoslovakia by Germany.

The proclamation, which was addressed to Sudeten Germans and Germans in the reich, declared, "It is definitely impossible for Sudeten Germans and Czechs to live in the same state."

"The Sudeten Germans want to return to our home in the reich," it said, complaining that self-determination had been denied them in 1919.

"The Sudeten Germans have never renounced the right of self-determination. God bless us in our just fight."

Shortly after the proclamation was transmitted a general strike was called at Reichenberg, fourth largest industrial center in the country and six miles from the German frontier.

Reports received in Prague said all stores were closed and all business activities halted. There were no editions of evening newspapers.

No Martial Law.

Thousands of Sudetens in Reichenberg gathered in the streets after hearing Henlein's proclamation and shouted demands that Sudeten territory be united with Germany. Martial law had not been imposed in Reichenberg.

The proclamation was broadcast through Germany and was transmitted to the Czechoslovak government by Henlein.

It was issued at Eger, near the German frontier, just a few hours before Great Britain's prime minister, Neville Chamberlain, was scheduled to talk with Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany on the Sudeten crisis.

It assailed methods used by the Czechoslovak government in efforts to crush disorders which have caused at least 2 deaths in Sudeten areas in the past three days.

No Troops Dispatched.

The cabinet immediately began to study the proclamation at Prague and indicated an answer would be given, possibly this afternoon.

Meanwhile, the government dispatched more troops and tanks to suppress disorders in the Sudeten regions, the death toll of which was not yet fully known.

"Stop this rebellion before it becomes an European conflict," were instructions to the army, the police and the gendarmier.

Bent on swift action, it appeared that probably before the end of the day the government would convene one of the special courts provided by martial law at Eger, Sudeten stronghold where officers encountered machine-gun fire as they tried to capture a sniper in Victoria hotel.

The courts are empowered to

The Characters

Hugo Stern, handsome author, living on the French Riviera.
 Archie Lumsden, "myself," husband.
 Rene Geiss, head of a murder conspiracy.

Yesterday: The judge acquits me of complicity in the crimes, and learns that I suspect Geiss. Fleuriot asks to talk to me.

Chapter 34

Mr. Noah More

Fleuriot was waiting for me outside the police station in his small, battered Renault.

"May I return to the chalet," I asked him, "after I pick up my things at the hotel?"

"Assuredly," said he politely. "Although, in view of the valuable evidence you can give, I trust you are not thinking of leaving Cannes for the present?"

"Not until this business is finally cleared up," I assured him. "Monsieur Lumsden, that last remark of yours appears to argue a special interest in the case—on interest that I cannot feel to be wholly impersonal."

"Perhaps you're right," I agreed reluctantly.

"You do not wish, perhaps, to discuss your reasons for such an arrest? Well, I will respect your reticence, I will ask no questions—save this one, and here I speak not as a police official but as man to man, Monsieur Lumsden, ignoring the two earlier crimes and considering only this last one—if you were in my position, knowing what I know and nothing more—whom would you suspect of the murder of Monsieur Venner?"

"I think," I said slowly, "that I'd keep a pretty close eye on the chasseur."

He drew a deep breath. "I fancy," he commented dryly,

VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

"that the sooner we arrive at the Chateau la Vague, the better."

It was a bare minute later that we pulled up at the gates, but though it was not yet nine o'clock, the big house was completely dark. The man from Marseille strode to the office counter and rang the bell, and a moment later the housekeeper appeared.

"The chasseur, mademoiselle," Fleuriot said abruptly. "Have the goodness to call him I wish for a word with him."

She started at that. "I am sorry, but he is not here. With the guests gone, there was no more work for him. I paid him his wages and he left this evening."

"You let him go?" he echoed. "And where to, may one ask? What address did he leave with you?"

She shrugged expressively. "He left no address. Why should he, and why should I ask for one? He had only been here a day, and the judge d'instruction had already questioned him. He," and she flashed a vicious glance at me, "he was not a suspect."

"So, he was not a suspect?" Fleuriot snarled back at her. "That is enchanting! And you, one supposes, mademoiselle, are not suspect either?" He swung round on me. "Monsieur Lumsden, I had intended to conduct you to the chalet, but I regret that is now impossible. I have too much to attend to."

"Don't worry about me," I told him. "I'll pack my bag and walk."

I did as I had said, but though it was a short enough way and the bag was light, I was uncomfortably glad to see the chasseur loom up beside me in the dusk.

There was a family party assembled on the terrace, Ada and Dunning sitting side by side under the cork tree, and Hugo leaning over the balustrade.

The big dog, Lulu, lay at his feet, but at sight of me he rose and came across the terrace to meet me, wagging his tail, and as he did so, Hugo hailed me with a joyful shout. Next minute they were all around me, welcoming, questioning; but after one look at me, Hugo caught me by the arm and dragged me to my room.

"It's bed for you, my lad," said he grimly, and shortly I was reclining comfortably on my narrow couch, a supper tray on my knees, with Hugo and Dunning sitting on either side, and Ada, wide-eyed and breathless, leaning by the window, while I told my story between mouthfuls.

The Belgian Yacht
 "I'm still waiting to hear what's happened to both of you," I ended. Hugo sighed. "Nothing from my end," said he.

"I haven't broken such a lot of ice either," said Dunning. "Beyond seeing that our three love-birds, Geiss, Stahl, and Rakovsky, haven't been up to any tricks, I've done nothing. Stahl has spent his time drinking on the Carlton terrace; Rakovsky hasn't stirred a foot outside his villa garden, and Geiss this morning moved over bag and baggage to join him."

Apart from your valuable efforts, any credit for recent sleuthing goes to our young friend, Jean-Francois. First and foremost, he has located the yacht."

I exclaimed at that. "The deuce he has!" and he nodded solemnly. "She arrived in the harbor late last night, a seagoing boat, by name the Rendezvous, sailing under the Belgian flag and carrying a crew of six; and her owner, strangely enough, is the hardy mariner Baron Stahl. But the boy did more than locate her. He discovered that she was short of a cabin steward, and he got himself signed on the job. The engineer has orders to keep steam up, and the lad tells me the staterooms are all ready for occupation and there are sufficient victuals for a longish voyage."

I whistled. "Planning a getaway, in case things go wrong?" I suggested, and he nodded.

"Precisely," said he, "but with Jean-Francois aboard, we shall get full and due warning. The boy has maintained contact with his friends at Geiss's—or rather did until last night."

He broke off to chuckle. "What happened was partly my fault," he confessed. "I sent a man along to make a few inquiries at the villa. My man represented himself to be a traveling salesman for sewing-machines, but unluckily at one period in his career he had been an agent of the Surete, and the precious pair recognized him. They fancied the police were on their tracks again, and last night they folded their tents like the Arabs and silently stole away, so that our dear friend Rene is now without a domestic staff, which is, I take it, why he has shifted himself across the frontier."

"A pity," I said. "A pity in one way," he agreed, "but in another not without its brighter side, for the villa is now untenanted, and we'll never succeed in pinning the guilt on Mr. Rene Geiss until we've located the gun with which he shot poor Pat."

As they were leaving, Hugo said, "Stay where you are until you're rested. Tomorrow I'm going to try and find that Amourie, whatever it may be."

Ride in a Bus
 All next day I followed Hugo's advice and dozed comfortably. At suppertime, Hugo telephoned.

"No one seems to have heard of Amourie," said he, "and I've been over the coast with a fine tooth comb. If you take a bus down at nine thirty, I'll meet you for a drink at that big cafe in the Allee de la Liberte."

At ten minutes past nine I was on the corner of the road hailing a passing bus. It was packed to the brim. I climbed the little step, wedged myself inside, and felt the door graze my back as it shut to. Next minute we were off again on a wildly zigzagging course along the narrow road. I held my breath and hung to the brass rail behind the driver, as we swerved perilously round corner after corner; and then, suddenly, something happened.

We were cascading down a narrow, cobbled street, when a man behind me pushed me rudely to one side, caught the door-lever, and threw it over, and at the same moment I felt an almighty shove, like the thrust of someone's knee, in the small of my back. We were shooting round a house with an angle as sharp as a knife-edge, and even as I pitched forward and outward, I seemed to hear the crack my head would give as it hit the wall; but as I fell, someone caught me by the leather belt about my middle and dragged me back in the very nick of time, and at the same moment the bus pulled up with a screaming of brakes.

The driver thrust his head round a couple of passengers and let out a very pretty flood of profanity. "Where is the madman who did that?"

I turned, for I had an even greater curiosity to see the individual who had so nearly precipitated me into eternity, and found myself staring into a vacant, dust-colored face.

"Well," I said bitterly, "you nearly pulled it off that time, Mr. Noah More!" and saw his eyes travel slowly round to me, as if he found it difficult to focus them.

"You know me?" he said. "That is, of course, not my real name—but it is strange, all the same, that you should know it."

His gaze wandered, and he brought it back to my face with a visible effort. "I am sorry this has happened," he said vaguely. "I assure you it was not intentional on my part—I merely wished to get out."

Next minute he was in the roadway, hastening, with his queer shuffling tread, up a side-street. The driver swung the door to and tapped his forehead significantly.

"Imbecile!" said he, and put down his foot on the gas, but as he did so, a voice spoke from behind me. "Not an imbecile!" it said, speaking in English, but with the gentle singsong of the Levant.

I turned and saw, standing just behind me, one of the innumerable Arab carpet-sellers of the Riviera, a dark-skinned, gentle-eyed creature, in crimson fez and flowing draperies, his gaudy merchandise piled on one arm.

"Was it you who pulled me back?" I asked, conscience-stricken because, in the flurry of the moment, I had forgotten to look for the man who had undoubtedly saved my life.

He nodded slowly and raised his lips to my ear. "Monsieur Dunning will be glad to hear it," he whispered with the ghost of a smile, and next moment, with a fine flourish, we pulled up at the terminus by the town hall. As I scrambled out, I paused to look for him, but all I saw was a flutter of white draperies disappearing under the shadowy lime trees, and I turned my steps rather thoughtfully towards the Allee de la Liberte.

ON BOND ISSUE
 Bond issue for Harmon Township of Lee Co., Ill., for the purpose of building more roads. This old saying is that you can overdo a good thing, which is true. When a bonding company from Peoria, Ill., sends out notices to all property owners of the township for a meeting for the purpose of influencing the people to vote a big bond debt on themselves to run for several years, for road improvements which will be worn out by the time the bonds are paid.

The bonding company states that they will pay the expense of the special election. Now it is time for the people to wake up before they are caught in the trap. These bonding companies are promoting bond issues all over the country with the assistance of a few persons in each community.

As to what takes place back of the curtains between them and the bonding companies is anybody's guess. The understanding is that the Federal government will furnish 45% of the funds. Now this government money is used as a bait to put over these bond issues on them at a tremendous rate in the past few years.

There is five billion dollars bait to be given out to the people in the next few months. It is presumed that they will go after it like flies.

The roads are kept hot by our public officials going to the federal offices for this public bait for the voters. The people are having to pay this money by invisible taxes added on the cost of all commodities that they buy and this social security labor act which provides for several billions of dollars. So do not think that this government money is a Christmas gift.

It is estimated that the bonding and loan companies now own around one hundred farms in this township. The same conditions exist all over this country. Now they are calling meeting to influence the tax payers to bond themselves heavily which will depreciate property values at a tremendous rate. Another opportunity will present itself for them to take possession of a great many more farms at reduced prices, and there is nobody to blame but the property owners themselves for pushing to the polls and voting for every proposition that is presented to them by these bonding companies. This county is going to be a financial wreck if the taxpayers do not wake up. The renters will pay their share of this bonded debt on account of increased rents that will follow. Mr. Taxpayer, you had better use your own head and not depend on the bond promoters and their co-workers for advice.

Signed,
 (Taxpayer)

ARMY FLIER IS KILLED IN FALL NEAR DANVILLE

Danville, Ill., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Army officials launched an investigation today to determine the cause of an airplane crash in which Lieut. William Schissler, 31, of the U. S. coast guard service, was killed.

The plane plummeted to earth near Henning, 14 miles northwest of here, last night.

Schissler, a student in the airplane mechanics division of the army's technical school at Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., reported by radio at 6:55 P. M. that all was well. Ten minutes later his ship crashed in a clover field. Wreckage was strewn over the field for a quarter of a mile.

Tom Watson, a farmer, who saw the plane fall, said Schissler apparently was trying to make a forced landing. A flare was thrown from the plane, Watson said, but died out before it hit the ground.

Until three weeks ago Schissler had been stationed at St. Petersburg, Fla. He was with the coast guard since 1934.

Survivors include his widow, Noreen, of Norwich, Conn., three small children and his mother, Mrs. Helen Thill, of Philadelphia.

The total front in the World War was approximately 400 miles long; American troops held about 25 per cent of it.

CAN TRUTH BE EMBELLISHED?

Walter B. Pitkin (Life Begins at Forty) has published in the Legislative News an article proclaiming that what conservative politics needs is a rabble-rouser.

Some who are now middle-aged had the pleasure of hearing, as children, high school and college debaters who depended for effect upon oratory rather than upon stern logic. Later, when these same middle-aged persons got into high school and college, they learned (at least in some schools) that triumphal oratory was out. Henceforth debaters were to present their facts without much stress upon the art of oratory. Facts, not color, were to count.

This practice appealed to the conservative souls, and upon this basis may rest the present need, as seen by Mr. Pitkin, for a conservative orator who can make the welkin ring; who can embellish truth in well-rounded phrases and make it appeal to sentiment as well as to logic.

Consider William Jennings Bryan. There was an artist who could take a handful of adjectives, verbs, nouns, pronouns and other parts of speech, and hurl them at a crowd with devastating effect. True, Mr. Bryan never attained his White House objective, and the reason was that when the Bryanese phrases were later seen in cold type, they meant nothing in particular. Even those most exposed to Bryan's perorations, who cheered loudest in front of the platform, were likely to vote the other way at the polls.

Then we shall consider Calvin Coolidge. We believe he never was guilty of trying to arouse the rabble. His speeches were crammed full of references to such homely things as tax reduction, international trade, economy, budget balancing and governmental efficiency. While Mr. Coolidge was president there was little apparent need of trying to decorate facts. The frugal Coolidge was a plowman and he saw no need of mounting a white horse and blowing the bugle. Rather, he followed the unbecoming furrow.

We doubt whether Mr. Hoover ever thought of dressing up his phraseology so as to make truth appeal to the emotions, and certainly Mr. Landon was no orator.

These were defeated by Mr. Roosevelt, who was neither an orator in the Bryanese sense, nor a logician in the Hoover-Landon sense. He appealed to the emotions well enough, but not to those particular emotions which we have in mind. Roosevelt spoke of economic royalists in well-stocked clubs. He aroused hatred and class consciousness.

If the conservatives need an orator, they need one who can start a sentence down the road with the nouns, adjectives and pronouns on one track, and the verb on the other and finally unite them with a whooping peroration at the terminal. If the conservatives have made an error in not cultivating oratory, it may be because they have eschewed all emotion. But all emotions are not unworthy. There are some that are based upon justice, fair play, self-preservation, honor and a host of other worthy principles.

It might be edifying to hear a speaker who could make the multiplication table sound like a passage from Robert G. Ingersoll.

THE MEXICAN THREAT

While we gaze with worried expression in the direction of Czechoslovakia and central Europe, we are neglecting to worry sufficiently about the serious threat just below the Rio Grande. The real threat to amity in the western hemisphere is the course taken by President Cardenas of Mexico. In demanding compensation for American oil properties confiscated, and for American-owned farm lands seized by the Mexican communists, we are within every treaty right and entirely within international law. Cardenas hasn't a leg to stand on, and admits it indirectly.

It is apparent that if the United States is to receive compensation for its nationals we must either use stronger diplomacy than we have used, or else we must clamp down. Stronger diplomatic language seems hard to find. How we are going to clamp down without stirring up a hornets' nest is puzzling the state department.

The issue really is broader than the value of oil rigs and agricultural lands. If we permit the Mexicans to get away with what amounts to confiscation, then not a dollar's worth of American property is safe in any part of the world controlled by governments not too anxious to respect American rights. If property of United States citizens may be seized with impunity in Mexico, then it may be seized anywhere by any radical government. Cardenas has precipitated a crisis that affects all of the western hemisphere and imperils the whole good neighbor policy.

In political fiction it has been related that before Roosevelt the United States policy toward Latin American republics was undemocratic, severe and even bullying. The Latins were pictured as hating us and trembling in fear of the northern ogre. So Mr. Roosevelt took a softer course. We shall see whether that softer course merely encourages stealing, or whether it will be reciprocated by responsible statesmen.

DRIVE SAFELY

One fatal automobile accident represents a total loss to a community of no less than $43,000, according to statistics compiled by the National Safety council.

Here is how this figure is arrived at—and bear in mind it is conservative. For each fatal accident there are, on the average, thirty-five automobile accidents which injure but do not kill. In addition, for each fatality there are approximately 150 automobile accidents which damage property but neither injure nor kill. They all cost money—repairing of vehicles and other property loss of wages, doctor and hospital expenses and overhead costs of insurance.

The total of these losses for 1937 was $1,640,000,000. If expressed as an average per death, the loss represented by fatality approximates $43,000. And the community pays for it. This is something for Dixon drivers to think about. It is sufficient reason for them to join a safe driving campaign.

MYSTIC SIGNS

The average man's experience with the explanations of most specialists in fields with which he is not acquainted leads him to the conviction that any explanation which is obvious and which he himself might have guessed at can't possibly be true. But Dr. Julian H. Steward, ethnologist with the Smithsonian Institution, comes along now in a very comforting way and knocks such a notion into a cocked hat.

Dr. Steward has been studying the drawings and squiggles left on American rocks and caves by prehistoric man. He declares that a large proportion of them are not, as others have contended, cryptograms or fragments of a lost language, but simply evidences of the old American habit of doodling. Prehistoric man didn't have any desk pads or telephone booths to draw doodles on, but he was a doodler anyway.

Some psychologist has asserted that 20th century doodling is the product of a nervous tension peculiar to this age. Dr. Steward's discovery makes it seem more likely that it indicates a trend to return to the primitive way of life. A glance at the current news of the world should remind you it's not the only evidence of such a trend.

WASHINGTON—To the country at large the official and private reports of a steady upturn in the building industry is cheering news, but it's a silver cloud with a dark lining.

Behind the sunny economic outlook is the grim menace of a new, fierce labor conflict.

CIO chiefs are secretly laying plans for a militant invasion of the building trades—the backbone of AFL financial and numerical strength.

The drive was conceived in the old military strategy that the best defense is an aggressive attack. By striking directly at the heart of the Federation's strength, CIO strategists believe they can undermine the A. F. of L.'s dominance and force it to come to terms.

Whether the CIO reasoning is sound remains to be seen. But it is certain that the battle between the two labor factions in the building trades will make their previous scrapping to date look like a pink tea.

The A. F. of L. can't afford to have a powerful industrial union in the building industry. Such a rival would not only be a body blow to the individual craft unions in that industry, but also to the whole system of craft unionism. It would literally mean the beginning of the end for the A. F. of L.

So the Federation can be depended upon to resist the CIO invasion of this key stronghold with every resource at its command. And on its part, the CIO is sure to throw everything in its arsenal into the struggle.

CIO leaders claim they have hundreds of letters from carpenters, plasterers, bricklayers, electricians, tinners and other building craftsmen, urging the CIO to launch an industrial union in their field because the AFL craft unions are racket-ridden. This charge will play a large part in the CIO's organizing strategy. Extensive data are being collected in preparation for the attack.

Other Invasions

The building industry is not the only new sphere that the CIO generals are eyeing. Also under consideration is a plan to move in on WPA workers, and another to organize mechanics in the tens of thousands of garages that dot the country.

Strong unions are already in existence among both groups of workers. The Workers Alliance, headed by David Lasser, claims a membership of 400,000 among WPA employees, and the AFL Machinists Union, headed by swartwarty Arthur Wharton, a rabid foe of

Brain Twizzlers

By PROF. J. D. FLINT

Sometimes two men approach the same work in entirely different ways and yet are equally valuable. One example of this is the fast-talking, piledriver type of salesman as contrasted to the smooth-talking, persuasive type. Often both will produce the same number of sales.

Somewhat the same situation was true with Tim and Tom, brothers and truck drivers for the same company. They were assigned to the same unloading job one day. Tim could do the work in thirty minutes but he couldn't do as neat and careful a job as Tom. The same job took Tom an hour. How long would it take to combine and do the job?

the CIO, claims a large enrollment of garage men.

For a while CIO chiefs considered affiliating with the Workers Alliance, but finally discarded this plan because Lasser insisted on certain conditions which the CIO would not meet. Instead they decided to organize a WPA union of their own.

The invasion of Wharton's domain will have many of the elements of a grudge fight. There was bad blood between him and John L. Lewis long before the CIO was set in motion, and since then Wharton has been its most bitter enemy within the AFL inner circle.

Back to Pie Counter

"Jeffy" O'Connor, ornate little former Comptroller of the Currency who ran a poor sixth in the California Democratic gubernatorial primary, lost no time hot-footing it back to Washington to try to get back his fancy-paying Treasury job.

For public consumption "Jeffy" is airily denying this, but behind the scenes he is busy pulling every wire he can to wangle himself back on the government payroll.

He may encounter considerable difficulty doing it. His job is still unfilled, but it's an open secret that Secretary Morgenthau has no love for "Jeffy" and was overjoyed when he resigned to enter the primary fight.

Since his return to the Capital, "Jeffy" has made several efforts to see the President, but so far has had no luck.

Discriminating

National Labor Relations Board lawyers are gleefully relating a story about the disfigurement of an attorney for the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company during a hearing in Birmingham, Ala.

The proceedings were on a complaint that the corporation was discriminating against union employees—a charge it vigorously denies. As proof of innocence the company offered the testimony of a number of witnesses, among them an old Negro worker.

Did this company or any of its agents or officers ever deny your right to bargain collectively?" asked the company's lawyer.

The witness pondered a while and then answered slowly, "No-o-o."

"Did this company ever attempt to discriminate against you?"

Again the witness hesitated, finally answered, "No-o-o."

"Did this company ever try to intimidate you or coerce you?"

"No, sir," was the prompt reply this time, "it did not. None of those things ever happened to me. When I joined the union they just up and fired me, that's all."

McAdoo vs. Downey

The meeting of the California Democratic State Committee on September 21, to write the party's platform for the November election campaign, promises to be a wild and woolly affair.

Sheridan Downey, who licked

Senator McAdoo, is demanding a plank favoring the "30 every Thursday" plan on which he rode to victory. But the McAdoos, who carried the northern half of the State, say "nothing doing" and threaten to bolt to Republican Governor Merriam if the Downey camp has its way.

While the two factions glare and grimace at each other, everybody is tensely watching Culbert Olson, the Democratic nominee for Governor, to see what he does about the issue. So far he has given no indication of his attitude toward the pension scheme.

His predicament is a tough one. If he ducks a declaration he is sure to be accused of straddling, and if he takes a position he stands to lose a big bloc of votes whether he favors the plan or opposes it.

Note—An interesting sidelight of the California primary was the fact that, with one exception, every candidate endorsed by Tom Mooney, famous labor prisoner, was nominated. The exception was William M. Jones, Democratic candidate for Attorney General.

JAMES CRABB'S PERJURY TRIAL STARTS MONDAY

Pekin, Ill., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Eighteen persons were under subpoena today to testify in behalf of the state next Monday at the perjury trial of James Crabb, 22-year-old son of a Delavan, Ill., banker.

State's Attorney Rayburn L. Russell, who issued the subpoenas announced that the charge was based on two conflicting statements Crabb made after the death of his 19-year-old bride of five weeks, Betty Collison Crabb. She was found dying from a bullet wound last March 1 in a bedroom of the elder Crabb's home, where the young couple had been living.

Russell said young Crabb testified at a coroner's inquest that he was not in the same room with his wife when she was fatally wounded. Last May when the young man was tried on a charge of manslaughter, Sheriff Ralph Goar testified that Crabb confessed, 10 hours after the inquest, that he accidentally shot Betty in a tussle for possession of the pistol.

A jury which heard evidence on the manslaughter charge was dismissed by Judge Joseph Daily last June 10 when it was unable to reach a verdict after 33 hours' deliberation.

Circuit Judge Henry J. Ingram of Peoria will preside at the perjury trial.

Russell said John Cassidy of Peoria would aid him in prosecuting the case while W. J. Reardon will head Crabb's defense counsel.

Camp Ralston Report is Released Today by Girl Scout Director

Grown-ups in Dixon weren't concentrating so intently on their summer occupations that they forgot to provide vacation happiness for the children. According to Camp Ralston statistics for the first season, June 19 to July 9, released today by Miss Marie Kelly, Girl Scout director, citizens of Dixon contributed $85 for camperships at the beautiful new camp. Through their generosity, 23 Dixon Girl Scouts enjoyed outings at the camp, which they otherwise could not have had.

Camp was in operation for three full weeks, including two one-week periods, and two three-day periods. Ninety-two girls were registered and there were 104 Girl camper weeks.

Girls from five other towns also participated in the camp program, including visitors from Sterling, Prophetstown, Freeport, Evanston, and Western Springs. Their first overnight hike was a thrilling experience for 14 campers.

Miss Kelly announces that camp will be available for Troop overnight, week-ends, and all-day hikes, starting Sept. 24 until about Nov. 1. Troops interested are asked to make reservations as early as possible at Girl Scout headquarters.

New Set of Federal Court Rules Goes Into Effect Today

Washington, Sept. 15.—(AP)—A new set of Federal court rules, hailed by Attorney General Cummings as "the most striking advance in the administration of justice in half a century," go into effect tomorrow.

Justice department officials said the procedural changes—86 of them—should save litigants time and money because they eliminate considerable legal red tape and provide shortcuts for settling suits.

Drafted by the Supreme Court with the aid of department experts, the new rules govern civil suits. Officials said some of the principal changes included:

A loser in court can not ask for a new trial because of a technical error unless he can show that the error actually affected the outcome of the case.

Less than 12 jurors may hear a case by mutual consent of all parties, thereby saving the litigants time and the government money.

Judges may confer with attorneys for both sides at a "pre-trial." There, extraneous testimony can be weeded out, unnecessary witnesses dismissed, and the real issue agreed on before the trial begins.

Uniform Freight on Grain Being Sought

Chicago, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Testifying before the Illinois Commerce Commission yesterday,

John E. Brennan, a director of the Chicago Board of Trade, urged uniform railroad rates for grain hauling in northern Illinois.

He said the Rock Island railroad should not be permitted to lower its grain hauling rates between Morris, Ill. and Chicago from nine and a half to five cents per 100 pounds.

Shippers at Seneca and Langham, paying the same rate as those in Morris, would be placed at a disadvantage under the new schedule, he said. Marshfield and Ottawa, now paying 10 cents, and Utica, paying 11 cents, also would be affected.

Shippers in those towns are seeking rates comparable to the proposed Morris rate. The commission took the case under advisement.

PROMOTE HIGHWAY
Encouraging reports were received at the dinner meeting of the directors of the Rochelle Chamber of Commerce held at the Collier Hotel, Wednesday evening.

The road committee consisting of W. F. Eber, John D. Sweeney and John P. Manning have raised $250 Rochelle's portion. J. D. Sweeney is secretary and M. M. Hickman has been acting as treasurer of the Illinois Lincoln highway association.

The purpose of the organization is to set up appropriate publicity and advertising plans for the Lincoln Highway, to work for its improvement by the state highway department and to let the whole United States know the historic interest and scenic value of the highway, especially on its roadbed through the Fox River Valley. Route 330 is still the Lincoln Highway and will continue to be known as such. The Lincoln Highway was dedicated as the first trans-continental highway.

The organization plans to erect two large signs, each 30 feet by 30 feet, at the junctions of Route 330 and 30 at Dixon and Aurora. These signs will urge tourists to travel on the Lincoln Highway and mention the points of historic and educational features on the highway. For instance a sign will tell tourists that the world's largest asparagus is located in Rochelle; Rochelle will be publicized as the home office of the Midwest Division of the California Packing Corporation, the headquarters of the Caron Spinning Company and Morgan Dyeing & Bleaching Companies and of the Whitcomb Locomotive Works subsidiary. The advantages of Spring Lake and Rochelle's popular and beautiful Memorial Park will also be given publicity. One hundred and fifty smaller feeder signs will be posted between Clinton and Dixon and the Indiana border and Aurora, calling attention of tourists to the above mentioned facts, as well as the facts concerning DeKalb, Batavia and Geneva.

The suggestion was also made to secure the services of a commercial artist to make a drawing of the route and to have mats made from this and given to the newspapers for use in their motor columns.

Other matters discussed at the directors meeting included results of cooperation with the township high school in securing students, health service and circular cooperation.

The organization of the insurance men of the Chamber to safeguard the field was mentioned and also credit control and assistance at the dinner meeting of the directors of the Rochelle Chamber of Commerce held at the Collier Hotel, Wednesday evening.

One of the features of the Rochelle Chamber of Commerce's fall festival to be held Friday and Saturday, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, will include the children's parade on Saturday. Pets, bicycles, costumes and babies will be entered in the parade, which is in charge of John Maxson and his recreational committee composed of A. H. Maginnis, W. F. Vierke, Chester Ellis, Edward Winebrenner, Dr. C. H. Schaller, Dr. L. W. Masters, and Fred Waring.

CONRY—KING
Miss Margaret Conry, daughter of Mrs. Carl Marxman of Rochelle, became the bride of Wayne King Saturday at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother. The Rev. Frank A. Campbell officiated and 24 guests attended the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her grandfather, Robert Shreeve, of Michigan City, Ind., wore a frock of blue crepe and her flowers were roses and sweet peas. Miss Dorothy Carpenter, as bridesmaid, also wore blue crepe and a corsage bouquet of sweet peas, Merrill Rice was best man.

The bride is a graduate of Rochelle high school. The groom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll King of Rochelle, is with the Manning Motor Sales.

After the wedding, a dinner and reception was given to honor the bride couple, and decorations were carried out in pink and green with flowers and light tapers on the table.

After their return from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. King will be at home in the Comstock apartments in Rochelle.

FEDERAL AGENTS HERE
Joe Cross, who resides on Prairie avenue, was taken to Ottawa Tuesday by two Federal agents to face trial on charge of illegal possession of liquor. His wife was fined $200 and costs by Police Magistrate Ben L. Berve, when arraigned Tuesday morning on charges of illegal sale of liquor. $150 of the fine was suspended and Mrs. Cross was released upon payment of $50. The couple were arrested Monday by the government agents after first procuring a search warrant.

PROMOTE HIGHWAY
Encouraging reports were received at the dinner meeting of the directors of the Rochelle Chamber of Commerce held at the Collier Hotel, Wednesday evening.

The road committee consisting of W. F. Eber, John D. Sweeney and John P. Manning have raised $250 Rochelle's portion. J. D. Sweeney is secretary and M. M. Hickman has been acting as treasurer of the Illinois Lincoln highway association.

The purpose of the organization is to set up appropriate publicity and advertising plans for the Lincoln Highway, to work for its improvement by the state highway department and to let the whole United States know the historic interest and scenic value of the highway, especially on its roadbed through the Fox River Valley. Route 330 is still the Lincoln Highway and will continue to be known as such. The Lincoln Highway was dedicated as the first trans-continental highway.

The organization plans to erect two large signs, each 30 feet by 30 feet, at the junctions of Route 330 and 30 at Dixon and Aurora. These signs will urge tourists to travel on the Lincoln Highway and mention the points of historic and educational features on the highway. For instance a sign will tell tourists that the world's largest asparagus is located in Rochelle; Rochelle will be publicized as the home office of the Midwest Division of the California Packing Corporation, the headquarters of the Caron Spinning Company and Morgan Dyeing & Bleaching Companies and of the Whitcomb Locomotive Works subsidiary. The advantages of Spring Lake and Rochelle's popular and beautiful Memorial Park will also be given publicity. One hundred and fifty smaller feeder signs will be posted between Clinton and Dixon and the Indiana border and Aurora, calling attention of tourists to the above mentioned facts, as well as the facts concerning DeKalb, Batavia and Geneva.

The suggestion was also made to secure the services of a commercial artist to make a drawing of the route and to have mats made from this and given to the newspapers for use in their motor columns.</

FANFARE—

By DON DANIELSON

There is a popular song going the rounds of the better yams circles these days called, "If It Rains, Who Cares?" If you are pressed for an answer, here it is: we do! The ill-fated softball All Stars game has had as much chance in this weather as Czechoslovakia in the present crisis. However, all is not yet lost for either the Czechs or All Stars and a peaceful settlement with the weather is sought for Friday night when once again we'll try to get that softball classic off the records and into history. If it doesn't come off tomorrow night—we'll toss up the sponge and call the whole thing off.

Coach Lindell is driving his gridders hard in preparation for the game on Saturday at Rock Falls. Yesterday the boys plowed around in the mud until they looked like a gang of Al Jolson's doing a Mammy Act. There will be a game between the reserve teams of the two schools starting at 1:15 and the main event will get under way about 2:30. Rah, Rah, Rah! DIXON:

Dixon softball postponements rival those of the big city—proving again there's nothing Chicago has that Dixon can't equal, in a way. The four softball teams in the Windy City scanned the skies today and hoped they'd be able to settle the men's and girls' championships in the International tournament tonight. The finals were rained out for the third time last night. In Dixon it was the second delay. The puddles at the airport would make adequate skating rinks with a quick cold snap.

More All Stars dope: With this cool weather of today the airport is expected to dry out in time for the preliminary game at 7:15 when the Ashton girls will play the Dixon lassies. That's tomorrow night—mark the date.

Ralph Coffey of Polo has attained renown as a fisherman in the northern Wisconsin lake waters recently. Mr. Coffey hooked and landed a 20 pound muskellunge measuring 46 inches in length while fishing in Spider lake recently using a live sucker for bait. He was spending his vacation at Voss' Birchwood lodge near Manitowish, Wis.

Pignatelli, powerful fullback of Rock Falls high, may be unable to play against Dixon in the opener on Saturday. He received an injury in practice. X-ray pictures have been taken and the reading of them will determine whether he can play.

The sun came out this morning with brighter hopes for local sports. If everything goes along peacefully, the Knacks and Wildcats will play that benefit game on Sunday afternoon at Reynolds field. The close of the game will offer the championship of the city to the winner. Proceeds from the affair are to be turned over to the local Big Buddy club. Bert Cummings announced this morning that he will use his regular lineup of players. That means Ole on the mound and Windy as catcher.

WAR NEWS VIES WITH TENNIS AT NATIONAL MATCH

Foreign Competitors Are Visibly Uneasy About News From Europe

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 15—

(AP)—Foreign competitors, visibly uneasy, were spending more time around the press box asking for the latest "war" news from Europe than in watching the matches as the national tennis championships reached the quarter final stage today.

Except for a pair of Australians, Jack Bromwich and Harry Hopman, they all had been eliminated from the men's title hunt, leaving six Americans in virtual command of the situation. But the defeated British, French and Yugoslav delegates still were around, wondering if they would receive calls to hurry home and not to go west for the Pacific Coast events.

Henner Henkel was the only German sitting in the players' stand. He was ordered to return home a fortnight ago, after the German Davis Cup team lost to the Australians in the inter-zone final, but he has lingered here as a spectator. Friends of the popular young player are worried at his apparent disobedience of orders.

Top interest in the tournament today was centered on the quarter-final tie between Gene Mako and Gilbert Hunt Jr., two unseeded young men with big ideas. Mako says he will play his famous doubles mate, Don Budge, in Sunday's final. Hunt is the Washington mathematics teacher who disillusioned Bobby Riggs on Monday.

Bromwich and Hunt

The other men's duel was between Bromwich and Joe Hunt, young American Davis Cup team alternate, with Bromwich a decided favorite on the strength of his crushing three-set defeat of Frankie Parker two days ago.

Two women's quarter-final matches paired Dorothy Bundy with the machine-like Madame Rene Mathieu of France, and Margaret Lumb of England against Nancy Wynne of Australia. Since her conquest of Helen Jacobs, left-handed Miss Lumb is favored by a lot of critics to win the tournament.

The boys have quit suggesting that Bromwich might possibly lick Budge in the men's final. The red head left little doubt in anybody's mind that he is the pappy of the amateurs by the manner in which he poured it on luckless Charlie Hare yesterday in three sets 6-3, 6-4, 6-0. Budge still has lost a set in his fourth major championship, and he probably will not lose one.

Little Bryan Grant, Jr., ordered by his physician a month ago to abandon tennis, proved that he still has a few shots in his locker by defeating Adrian Quist of Australia, second seeded on the foreign list.

Charlie Grimm Signs As Sports Announcer

Chicago, Sept. 15—(AP)—For the next three years, Charlie Grimm, former manager of Chicago's Cubs, expects to be telling about what major league clubs are doing instead of telling a major league club what to do.

Grimm, who commented in July that he got his "first good night's sleep" after Gabby Hartnett succeeded him as manager of the Cubs, turned down two offers to return to baseball and signed a three year contract as a sports announcer for radio station WBBM, Chicago.

After the season's end, Grimm will vacation on his farm near St. Louis, returning to the air to cover the major and minor league meeting and spring training camps on a sponsored sports series.

Playing cards were invented about the year 1390 to amuse Charles VI, then King of France, who was subject to fits of melancholy.

According to a German expert, London is the best dressed city in the world, so far as men are concerned.

GOODMAN'S GOLF IS SURPRISE TO HIMSELF, FAMILY

Arrives at Oakmont With Little Hope But Shows Victory Style

Oakmont, Pa., Sept. 15—(AP)—Johnny Goodman looked over the wreckage of rain-drenched Oakmont today and decided he was a lucky guy.

The ex-Omaha caddy, now fat, prosperous and 29, came to the national amateur golf championship with his worst season in ten years behind him. His game was sluggish and his hopes of retaining the cup he won at Portland so low that he told his bride to stay home because he didn't expect to stick around very long. Even his brother-in-law, who helps Johnny get fat with the beer he sells, stayed away though he's a hot golf fan.

But as the title race entered the third round today, Johnny was riding high. His game was back with him and his bracket all washed out of sharpshooters who rated a good chance to beat him even in dangerous 18-hole matches.

Goodman always is a man to beat in this show. All he has to do is to get to it. Years ago when he was a raggedy caddy on the wrong side of those now famous Omaha railroad tracks he had to hitch-hike or chisel his way. Now he rides on Pullmans with bags packed with fancy clothes.

Hot From the Start

He arrived at Oakmont last week—his only triumph of the year a victory in the Sioux Falls S. D., open—and he got hot from the very start.

The dark horses, still operating behind every tree and bunker today though the field of 163 starters now totaled 16, cleared the way for Johnny in his bracket, the upper. As five of the Walker Cup players, among them Charles Richardson Yates, the British amateur champion from Jaw-Juh, fell, the defending champ found seven players in his bracket that he figures he ought to lick nine times out of 10 even if golf is an uncertain game.

They were "Sonny" Fraser, Atlantic City, N. J., Patt Abbott, a Hollywood extra, Walter Blevins, a night watchman from Kansas City, who were in the top quarter and Dick Chapman, Greenwich, Conn.; Tommy Sufertn Tailor, social registerite from New York, and a tall, thin unknown named Jimmy French from San Francisco, his third round foe.

Group Surrounding Him

Of the group surrounding Goodman, Tailor, Chapman and Blevins were the hottest. Today, Tailor tackled Chapman and Blevins met Joe Thompson, a Canadian, who escorted Sandy Somerville, 192 champ and young Freddie Haas, Jr., New Orleans, to the sidelines. Fraser meets Abbott, who accounted for Ray Billows, Walker Copper from Poughkeepsie, 2 and 1, in and of the many big upsets.

The lower brackets, on form, had all the thunder. In it were Edwin Kingsley, a little guy with specs from Magna, Utah, who beat Yates, 2 and 1; Wilfred Crossley, Dedham, Mass., his rival today; medalist Gus Turner Morland, Peoria, Ill., who meets Melvin Harbert of Battle Creek, former Michigan champion who registered from Syracuse, N. Y.; Frank Strafaci of Brooklyn, New York metropolitan champ; Willie Turnesa, New York, and Johnny Fischer, Cincinnati, who is favored to meet Goodman in the finals.

Bud Ward, Olympia, Wash., and Reynolds Smith, Dallas made it five out of seven defeated Walker Cup players in yesterday's heavy casualties. Ward was beaten by Art Doering, Jr., Chicago, who was licked by Chapman; Smith was dumped by Bob Brownell, Duke sophomore from Norbeck, Md., who then was trimmed by Harbert, who sneaked in via the play-offs.

Rain Postpones Run For Trotting Record

Indianapolis, Sept. 15—(AP)—Greyhound, holder of the world's trotting record of 1:56 for a mile, and Her Ladyship, world's champion pacing mare with a 1:58 record, may have to forego trials for new international speed marks on the state fairgrounds track here.

Sep. Palin of Indianapolis, driver and trainer of the horses, said he doubted whether the track would be dry enough for the attempts before he starts taking horses from his Indianapolis stable tomorrow to Lexington, Ky., for the grand circuit racing there. Rain has forced postponement of two scheduled trials.

CAMPERS' TIPS SUGGESTED FOR HOLIDAY SPORT

By O. WARREN SMITH

You fellows who drive a car have something at your disposal few, comparatively, know about.

Take a medium sized tin can and remove one end, fill three-fourths full of dry sand, coarse sand. Remember it must be dry sand! Now turn in, say, a third of a cup of gasoline and light with a match. Needless to add, you will not wait a week before scratching the match, or have your face over the can, or your hand unly exposed. If a bit leary, place a match in a split stick, lighting it with another stick, and using the long handle to ignite the gasoline. The saturated sand burns fiercely, the surrounding can concentrating the flame. Hang the old teapail above, and discover how quickly it will come to a boil. Naturally you will have placed the makeshift stove where the wind cannot strike it. It is truly surprising how well it works. You can, using a larger can, larger in diameter, do a fair job of trying, and a slice of smoked ham, impaled on the end of a stick can be well cooked, not to mention the always delicious bacon. It is a matter of surprise how long the fire lasts. Here experience is necessary to determine the amount of gasoline required. It is better to use too much rather than have the fire go out before the tea-water boils. When finished, kick over the can, in the road or dry sand, and your fire is extinguished. It is better, quicker and more reliable than "canned heat."

How To Broil Fish

To broil fish, prepare as for planking. If a wire broiler is used, grease it well to prevent sticking. Broil over hot coals only, and not over a flame, turning the broiler frequently to avoid scorching. Salt and butter immediately after removing from the fire. Next to planking this is the best method of cooking some varieties of larger fish.

When frying fish, plenty of grease should be used, not a mere smearing of the pan. There should be enough to bubble up around the fish. The grease should be very hot before placing the fish into it, and the fish should be wiped dry, otherwise it will become grease soaked. When frying large fish, cut into pieces, roll the pieces in cornmeal. This will brown them, and improve the flavor. Bacon or pork drippings, Crisco or Spry are excellent for frying fish, as well as lard. All fish should be killed at once and bled by severing the backbone near the head. If this is done the flesh will be firmer.

A Fish Chowder Recipe

Here is a good fish chowder. Place one quart of water in the pot and to this add two or three scraped and diced carrots, one tablespoonful of rice and one large onion, diced, one teaspoonful of salt, and pepper to taste. Boil twenty minutes, adding water to replace evaporation. Boil two pounds fish separately in just enough water to cover it. Pick the fish to pieces, remove the bones, and add the picked-up fish and the water it was boiled in to the pot. Boil until done, adding more water if desired.

Umpire Hiding

Timmins, Ont., Sept. 15—(AP)—It happened while South Porcupine was playing Lake Shore of Kirkland Lake for the Temiskaming baseball league championship.

Shelley of Lake Shore sped for home with what would have been the tying run. He ran into Schultz, the South Porcupine catcher, and fell unconscious. While Schultz chased the ball the Lake Shore players chased out and tried to drag Shelley over the plate. The umpire waved the runner, or rather dragged, out for interference.

South Porcupine won, 1-0.

Lake Shore is protesting the game. The umpire is hiding.

Moline Starts Its Uphill Fight for The Championship

Moline, Ill., Sept. 15—(AP)—Battered by Decatur's Commies in the first two games of the Three-Eye League final playoff series, Moline's Plows came home today to start an uphill fight for the championship.

Allyn Stout turned in his best game of the season for Decatur and set the Plows down with but one infield hit last night as the Commies won their second straight, 9 to 0. Louis Novikoff got the only safety off the ex-big leaguer.

Two hits, a walk, a sacrifice, an error and a wild pitch by Chick Stefani gave the Commies three runs in the first inning. Norm Peterson with three singles and Av Thompson with a double and a triple paced the seven-hit Decatur attack.

The shutout, added to Tuesday's night's 17 to 4 rout, put Moline two down and gave it a zero in the series' victory column.

Three 1 to 0 Games In Softball Finals Of National Tourney

St. Louis, Sept. 15—(AP)—Softball fans who braved cool weather and a light mist saw three 1 to 0 games last night in the third round of the American Softball Association's national tournament.

By that narrow margin, Phoenix, Ariz., defeated the McNichols of St. Louis, the Bendix Brakes of South Bend, Ind., won from the Denver M. Wrights of St. Louis, and the Dixon girls' team of Springfield, Ill., defeated the Grand Opera girls of St. Louis.

Individual stars included Outfielder Ciesielski of Bendix, who hit a homer for his team's only score, and Dorothy McCarthy of Dixon, who allowed two hits and struck out 17.

In a men's game, the Georges of St. Louis won from the Whites of Danville, Ill., 5-4.

Nicholas Louis Robert in 1798 invented the continuous paper machine, which revolutionized the manufacture of writing and printing papers. With minor changes made for greater efficiency, the machine still is in operation.

Approximately 105,000 baseballs are used during one season by the major leagues.

PIRATES SUFFER IN LAST-MINUTE PENNANT HUSTLE

Cubs Are Only Two and a Half Games Behind Leading Pittsburgh

By SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer

They put a blowout patch on the Pittsburgh Pirates' pennant bubble today and tried to get it to take off again in what is hilariously referred to these days as the National League "race".

Those forgotten New York Giants, featuring a patched-up infield and a pitching staff relying on sore winks, all but blew the bubble to bits yesterday by taking both ends of a doubleheader from the "choked up" Pirates.

Thus was continued the happy custom of never allowing a dull moment in this daffy senior circuit chase, for the Chicago Cubs, by whipping Boston's Bees, climbed to within 2 1/2 games of the top, and the Giants moved to a third-place tie with Cincinnati's Reds, who split a twin bill with Brooklyn.

Terrible Bill Terry gave up on the flag three weeks ago and then took up his option on a prerogative usually reserved for the fair sex, changing his mind and cutting the Giants back in. The terrific Terriers have rolled up their sleeves, and, with everything to win and nothing to lose, have decided its up to them for a time to maintain the recent laugh-a-day production of the Ford Frick Frolics.

How They Stand

As a result of the silly set of developments yesterday, the race looks something like this:

	W	L	Pct.	G.B.
Pittsburgh	77	56	.579	—
Chicago	76	59	.559	2 1/2
Cincinnati	75	61	.551	3 1/2
New York	75	61	.551	3 1/2

Of course, the Pirates, boasting a lead, are still the boys to beat, but they can't stay up there if they go through as many more days like yesterday.

Prince Hal Schumacher, sore arm and all, "sinker-balled" them to defeat, 3-0, in the first game, taking advantage of the fact they were pressing like your neighborhood tailor. In the nightcap, the Giants, just sent a seven-run blast over in the second inning and coasted in at 10-3.

Gabby Gets Homer

A homer by Gabby Hartnett with the bases loaded gave the Cubs a 6-3 margin over the Bees, but the Bostonians disputed the hit as being a foul ball and finished the game under protest.

Ernie Lombardi lashed two four-baggers and the Reds dropped the Dodgers, 8-4, in a doubleheader nightcap after the Brooklyn won the opener, 6-2. Ducky Medwick hit a pair of round-trippers as the Cardinals crushed the Phillies, 12-9 and 3-2.

The American League race saw the Yankees' final game of the year with Cleveland rained out, but the Yanks, nevertheless, advanced to a spot where they need only four wins to clinch the pennant.

Boston's second-place Red Sox belted the Tigers, 9-2, behind Joe Heving. In the only other game that escaped the weather man, the Athletics nipped the Browns, 4-3, on Wally Moses' ninth inning homer, to climb out of the cellar.

State Horses Win In Kentucky Show

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 15—(AP)—Six divisions of the horse show held in conjunction with the Kentucky state fair were won last night by entrants from Illinois farms.

They were:
Harness pony pair: Won by Cassilis Jasmine and Eclipse, Nan-Su farm, Highland Park, Ill. Polly Ensign, from the same farm, won in the single heavy harness horses division for horses between 14.2 and 15.2 hands.

In the lady's three-gaited mares or geldings division, Snuffy Smith, the entrant from the Red Top farm, Libertyville, Ill., was the victor. Mountain Raven from the same farm won in the division for three-year-old fine harness stallions, mares or geldings. The third winner from the farm was Golden Avalanche, victorious in the division for three-gaited mares or geldings, over 15.2.

The harness pony tandem, under 13.2 hands, was won by Braishfield Robin Adair and Carleton Kit-Kat of the Heyl Pony farm, Washington, Ill.

Football first played in the United States in the latter part of the 18th century, as far as can be established. There were no rules to the game and the players merely kicked the ball around for fun.

Youth Dies After Football Injury

Chicago, Sept. 15—(AP)—Ralph Cowgill, 17, an end on the Highland Park high school football team, died last night a few hours after he was injured in scrimmage. It was the first football fatality of the season in the Chicago area.

The team was practicing for its opening game Saturday. Cowgill, charging into several opponents, struck his head against a player's back. Dr. J. H. Lundstrom said the youth suffered a skull fracture.

DEAFENED WOMAN Hears Clock Tick

"I was so deafened I could hear nothing. Now I can hear the clock tick," writes Mrs. I. G. Goldsboro, N. C. If you are deafened, bothered by ringing, buzzing, roaring noises, this may be caused or aggravated by imbedded wax or a septic condition. Try the treatment that thousands say has enabled them to hear well again. It is called Gaurine, a Vienna specialist's antiseptic prescription. Used since 1896—over a million packages sold. Safe ingredients as listed in U. S. Pharmacopoeia. Money refunded if not satisfied. Costs only a few cents daily. Ask about Gaurine.
